

I supposed writing to you immediately on my return to town. My dear little pet. but I found so many Engagements pressing upon me. that it became an impossibility. I know now.
I have but a moment before going to school. to tell you how much I thank you for your dear notes. & the poetry. & copy of Miss Cooks poem. I have not even time to tell you what I think of your nice lines. but I will in a few days. meantime. let me urge you. to condense your thoughts. to bring all your poetry. into the fewest number of words. Concentration - is the grand merit of all writing. as well as ~~acting~~ you have the power in you. & you will Do it. I shall be able to tell you more plainly what I mean, at more leisure. I enclose you the poem I was speaking to you of & you shall return it to me as soon as you have done with it. In this last week's Dispatch, you will find the poem to me. I found Miss C very well, and as you supposed glad to get me back, only annoyed that she cannot have more of me. But I belong to the world, for some time to come. I must wait, until that is satisfied. Before I can ever belong to myself. I begin my hard work to-morrow night, & the heat is so frightful, that I saw in a ^{few} papers at the & know

my ^{melts}
surprised
I was the time
had temp
you have
I had to in which make it
be very an steps to show with nutments
in sea
with 2246

at the thought. what I am to do I know not. & if you hear of my melting away. dont be at all
surprised.

I was not at all astonished at the time Mr J. had given to his own bad temper. to Mr Bridgford. only when you have an opportunity. say to Mr J.
I had better keep quiet upon a matter in which he acted so very wrong. or I may make it disagreeable for him. it would be very awkward; ^{for him} if I should ever be obliged to say & show. all I can say show with regard to him. diffn tells truths. I shall be obliged to do it in self defence.

Write to me. whenever you can

I tell me all & every thing you wish I see your thoughts & the expression of them. let me have them as they come in dew drops. dont stop to correct them. but give them to me as they occur to you - I will write to you whenever I can. but dont be amused. if you dont hear as of ten as you could wish. remember the many calls upon my time & patience & believe that I love you as dearly as you would have me. so will you pardon me. & trust that I am faithfully & truly

Yours attached

17. Radnor Place Charlotte
Hyde Park
Monday, 15th June.