

FATAL DUEL IN MEXICO.

(From a New Orleans Paper.) The fatal duel between Lieutenants Munford and Mahan has been the cause of so much animadversion that Captains Young and Bankhead and Lieut. Garnett, who were present as friends upon that occasion, have thought it necessary to put before the public a statement of the origin and development of the affair.

THEATRES, ETC.

HAYMARKET.—This theatre commenced its season last Saturday night with "The School for Scandal" which went off with general approbation (a lengthened critique of the play appeared in our Town Edition last week.) At the end of the comedy, "God save the Queen" was sung by the company, who mustered in great force.

resemblance of voice, style, feature, and action, the fact of which, we hear, was communicated to the talented actress in her own country, America, before she had seen our first tragedian, and by no other than her own mother, who had been particularly struck with it. We are bound in gallantry to observe that the lady is decidedly the better looking of the two.

heard and monotone, the same waving curls, looking, in anything, a suspicion more glossy than ever. The programme was judiciously selected, embracing, in addition to many popular pieces, songs for some established favourites, among which we may mention one by M. Sainth, an air from Lucia di Lammermoor, most exquisitely played; and Messrs. Richardson, Lazarus, Cass, and Herr. König, in selections from Sonnambula; the last gentleman was rapturously encored.

humour, excellent training, and well working together have seldom, if ever, been equalled. Mr. Batty, no doubt, will have a triumphant season, which he well deserves. VICTORIA.—A very interesting three-act drama was represented here on Monday, entitled "The Merchant's Clerk: a Love Story." The piece is very creditably put upon the stage, and no doubt will have a long and deserved run.
