

Baltimore. M^y July 2nd 1861

I took to my dearer & best of daughters on Saturday. I have not had a letter from her since that of Monday last ^{and} ~~but~~ as she knew where to write to her own loving sister - not hearing from her I am in some considerable anxiety lest she should have overworked herself & become ill again - & thus I am in ignorance how to address her - when I left Boston she thought she should leave for Worcester on Saturday. Her last letter says, "not before Monday if then," so that I hardly know what to do. I failed to secure Mrs Tiffan's address in Worcester - so am in total ignorance of you whereabouts. I don't know whether you left orders for your letters to be forwarded or whether I can write to Boston to know where you are - In this dilemma it is hardly worth while writing - In your case you should get your letters at all you may be glad to know that I am well, have been to Washington - seen all the Camp been treated with great courtesy & marked respect by Mr Lincoln & My dear old friend Mr Seward have been now banished to death.

Tomorrow morning at 9.45. leave for Phila where I shall be for three days - on Saturday afternoon next shall leave New York by the 3 o'clock train to come to my bed to push on the road for a few days before flitting entirely - I fear the more chance to become weary of Mr. If you are still in Worcester & would like me to stop there on the Sunday with you - & go on to Boston on Monday morning I will do so You will scarcely have time to let me know, ^{me} therefore if you will send a letter to Care of N. G. Tibbitts Esq 46. Exchange Place New York on Friday - so that I shall get it when I call there Saturday morning I shall be glad.

I am literally crazed here. Every body in my room, & all talking at once that I hardly know what I write. I am that I love you very dearly & am very anxious about you but I will remark that I have spoken about Mr Forber's matters at Washington & I am sure there has been some misunderstanding about his wishes. The department found nothing on the coast of Maine & thought Forbes only wanted to form his Corps for a home guard & did not require that. I told the Secretary of the Navy & State that I thought there was some mistake & I think of the matter his case a little clearer they will employ his Corps. I hope of it. Good bye & God bless you my own darling - Dear love to Ned & hold me as I ever am your devoted Aunt

Pam
