

Charlote Bushman

233

Saturday Morning

12 July, 1862

T

Best of Dear! Will you forgive me for daring to name Sunday as my day for coming to see you. forgetting at the moment that I had an engagement for that day at Kingston.
I hope I shall not lead you into any loss of pleasure elsewhere. May I come to you for a little while on Monday at 4 o'clock - or half past 4. just to look at you & let me know when I shall come again.

Ah you make me such a coward!
 How happy I was with you on Thursday. Dear me for the cold I did. for I was so delayed with latched on with that I did not reach my door until past so cold so cold & shivering. I hope you escaped. It was my dear walking with you. & dearer, listening to you.
 If I come in an open carriage into your dinner with us on Monday afternoon? That will be nice for all will it not? Could we not to reach me on Monday morning at 9. Cunningham Place - I shall Wood (when I shall set my house for the next three weeks) to say yes!

Ever love you dear, & make you always can be

Your loving Harriet

Mrs. Delbrooke is very bad with her foot
 Mrs. Stubbs for there tomorrow.