

Dear friend. -

I find the business part of "Quests" so very difficult to me. - that I think, had I thought on the subject, my old shyness would have got the worst of me, - & I should have said "No." - It is idle to tell you (in one who hates talk as much as I do) how narrow the idea of taking artists' Money, always makes me. Publishing & managing me our poetry, or play (which is it? - or is there is?) - But I like as little that I or U. should trade, as that trade should finish with I. O. U. -

Still, as it seems that some one must be called in, & would be paid were ~~not~~ I to give up. - perhaps, I am only right in availing myself of another opportunity of studying my profession.

Is £50 drac.? for the labour.

I write today & not tomorrow: because, should you find the least difficulty in the matter - or feel, as if another physician would do as well, whose prescription is not costly — you may still do so, without incurring to yourself I am sure, that, in no word, shall I, or can I, misunderstand you, as little can you or shall you, misunderstand

Yr. very faithfully

Henry J. Chorley.
