

K.
to Charlotte Cushman

My dear Miss Cushman

I find that after all the magazines were left behind last night when the servant took my note to your house -

I am sorry for this stupid mistake

Yours ever

Henry Kemble
(over)

in looking over some things of mine the other evening I found this certain train which I very much wish you would accept - the silver I am sorry to see is much tarnished - but it has never been worn or even made up since I bought it - you may possibly be able to turn it to some account, & I should be very glad if you could for I have been annoyed exceedingly at your having paid the price you did for those old trumperies of mine & have wished ever since that I could find some more of "Throynis".

Something more into that bargain to make it a little more fair

What a long postscript!
